

Just remember – a poem for Year 6

Just remember your times tables, we said, you need to know them all,
Breakfast is a must for you to grow big, strong and tall,
Adjective, adverbs, and use the correct tense, you'll need it when you write,
As each and every one of you tried with all your might,
And learn those spellings too; we groaned, each and every rule,

They won't treat you like this, we moaned, or be as understanding at high school,

"We've made mistakes and learned so much and ready to try our best,
But Miss, it's unfair, we've worked or socks off, and now they've cancelled our test!"

Just remember you never gave up when it seemed so far from the start,
You learned as much as you possibly could and really did play your part,
Just remember what you've achieved and who you've become now,
Stand in front of your family, proud, and tell them to clap as you bow,
Just remember my Year 6s, what matters is you're safe and well,
And one day, this insane story, you'll be able to share and tell,
And one last thing, we do miss you, but sure we'll see you before school's end,

Just remember: look after each other, love, and be kind to all family and each and every friend.
