

Tuesday 7th July

English Task 2: Photographs

Two German bombers fly over south-east London on the first day of the Blitz, 7 September 1940.

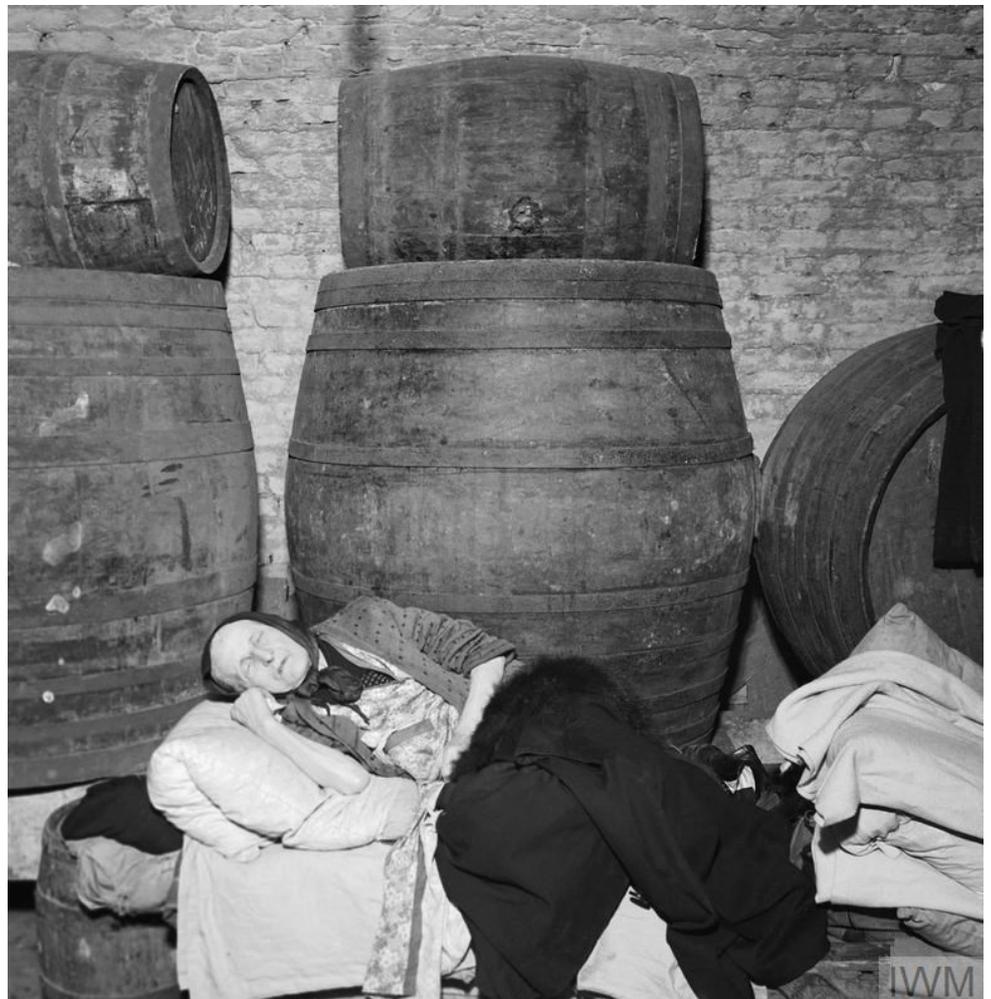

St Paul's Cathedral seen through smoke caused by a bombing raid on London in December 1940.

Buildings in Manchester burn after an air raid on the night of 23 December 1940.

A woman sleeps on a bed made on top of a row of barrels in the cellar of a wine merchant's in East London in 1940.

IWM

A bus lies in a crater in Balham, south London, after a bombing raid.

Bomb damage in the centre of Coventry after the devastating German air raid on the night of 14 November 1940.

Civilians take shelter in Elephant and Castle Underground Station in south London during an air raid in November 1940.

One badly damaged house still stands amidst the piles of timber and rubble following an air raid on Queen's Road, Aston, Birmingham, on 11 December 1940.

Local boys play a game of cards in an air raid shelter in south-east London in November 1940.

Troops of 9th Battalion, The Hampshire Regiment, clear bomb damage in Hull sustained during the Blitz.

Mannequins litter the pavement outside the John Lewis department store on London's Oxford Street after an air raid in September 1940.

Volunteers prepare to distribute tea to people taking shelter in North London.